

MINDFULNESS VS. STRESS

A new workshop by Chantal Hofstee

Stress is often seen as a badge of honor. Yet, it comes with a high cost in sick leave, absenteeism and turnover, as well as reduced productivity and performance.

The great news is that there are simple, low cost techniques that help manage stress levels in daily life – making your staff more productive, creative and resilient. Many companies, including Google, Apple and Deutsche Bank are turning to mindfulness based stress management training for their staff.

MINDFULNESS – THE SIMPLE SOLUTION

There is now compelling scientific evidence that people become more resilient, when they learn and regularly practise stress management techniques. This resilience improves performance under stress and protects people from burnout.

Your brain has an incredible capacity for clear and focused thinking; the type of thinking that gives you unique, innovative ideas and lifts your performance to the next level. For most of us this capacity is not fully realized.

CHANTAL HOFSTEE

Clinical Psychologist, Executive coach and Author of Mindfulness on the Run

Chantal Hofstee is one of New Zealand's leading mindfulness teachers. She is on a mission to help people take control of their stress. She teaches research based mindfulness techniques, which don't require a formal meditation practice but can be used on the go, yet they have been called 'enlightening' and 'gently life changing'.
